An artificial carbonated spring enriched in carbon dioxide, where the pH value of the spring (pH5.0-5.5) is almost the same as the human body skin offering excellent functions towards softening and nourishing the skin.

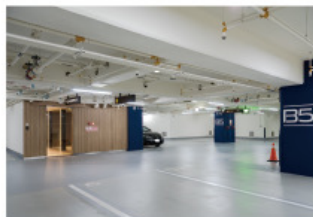

Smooth blood circulation is accelerated when soaking in it, thereby stimulating peripheral blood circulation, enhancing metabolism and reinforcing immunity.

The temperature of the carbonated hot spring is lower than common hot spring water, capable of stimulating the expansion of blood vessels to lower blood pressure, thereby improving cardiovascular functions, such that you will not experience signs of palpitations when bathing in it.
